Webs

by stylus Friday, Oct 8 2010, 9:25pm international / poetry / post beware little fishes and breeze-riding butterflies words spun by the accomplished are nets/webs; all manner of lures, weapons and healing salves they are.

reality is a servant
to a well-spun phrase;
word-chains form dazzling necklaces;
exclamations pick the locks of paradise.
words yoke the unwary
(into slavery)
beware my little pretties words both save and ruin.

by design i tug at ur heart entwine ur soul and capture ur spirit -easily.

words dance on ur being as invited hands dance around ur secret places slow-moving fingertips release torrents of pleasure, words send spirits soaring or terrorise entire nations.

consummate artisans are able to span the entire length of existence instantly -electric kisses on ur neck and spine.

the most adept and intelligent are slaves to skilful code more so than even the dull or dense.

no one is immune not even poets;

we are all defenceless.

culture rests on the pillars of language; texts are the building blocks of 'reality/mind.'

so thrill or shrill, whatever the case may be and never forget to whose rhymes and rhythms you dance.

http://cleaves.zapto.org/news/story-2144.html

Underground Oz Poetry. http://ozpoetry.lingama.net/news/poem-146.html