> the sun shines on my body this morning, its warmth penetrates to the icy core and triggers expansion, release. from trickles to flows to mighty torrents; from elevated sites 'the roof of the world' -- my permanent abode -i reach parched lowland plains and continue to the Sea. ur hot, parched body eagerly waits for my cool life-giving draught; imbibe absorb satisfy ur needs, refresh ur body/soul and burst into life, blossom in all your glory u were created for that purpose. i gladly supply the means by which you transform dormancy, apparent death into every manner of vibrant Life.
