

Language

international / poetry / post in the womb i learnt to speak the language of creation but forgot when i entered this world slowly i learnt the audible language of man with its limitations and inadequacies i became tired of constant misunderstandings and the conflicts they create so i turned to the rhythm of the sun, moon and stars.

moving majestically with inarticulate heavenly bodies i began to remember my first words

countless beings
from countless worlds are able to communicate and understand each other speaking as if mute
the inarticulate language of the heart
