

Home

by emica Friday, Nov 20 2015, 11:27pm international / poetry / post

I see you, tears form little pools of salty liquid before streaming down my face I do not cry from sadness nor from pain or betrayal I weep for the beauty I see in you it fills me with so much love I can not contain it

tears,
droplets of emotion fall like rain
the mirror you hold before me reflects to infinity I feel the whole universe move through me -- when i look deep into your eyes they reflect all the beauty all the magic the flux of endless galaxies revealing the meaning of true love of freedom
In one eternal moment found within me and within you, I know you've been there too you understand the wholeness of eternity balancing in space not being pulled in meaningless directions nor buying into false dreams, illusions

thank you for meeting me in the place i call home