they fall and tumble in mathematical precision not equations but notes/music the music i see, hear and taste darting at times then slowly flowing like distant galaxies the constant rhymes and rhythms of existence transported and carried to where the symphony leads with the precision of a rose before it blooms or lightning before it strikes knowing beforehand what will happen as the music leads in clear directions tap those jewelled keys pluck those strings let sound resonate forever, how easy it is to understand sound, colour and the form they make as Life play the secret chords and arouse the sleeping wheels of life that merge into white light, seven octaves issuing from one primordial sound and returning to it who or what could miss it? only those that inhabit dullness i see you as sigil distilled to ur essential form represented as geometry that associates specific sounds with every overlapping geometric form i know ur name the name hidden by ur ignorance deep in this myriad called everything nothing escapes reduction to its essential nature, can u not see? of course not u inhabit the plane of the blind, deaf and mute if u stand before a locked door with a key in ur hand surely the next step is obvious but not here in this nightmare called civilised society where only darkness, ignorance and violence prevail unlock urself and see what is Real clean ur senses of the media filth that dulls and captures, free urself and Fly -- u only appear as a limited terrestrial being though u have issued from ALL and to all u will return if u take the road u have pre-scribed for urself, no-one is able to return by any other means or avenue, your way outward is also Your way Home if u unlock urself and range Free this is not a poem, it's a Promise
