Quest Eternal

by suyug via janice - Inverse Times Wednesday, Aug 15 2018, 4:34am international / poetry / post i loved u before i was and when i became i loved u more emerging from the primordial vapours without an identity but a burning love for You only

i remembered when u cast me into existence with a kiss that tattooed my forming heart, formed to serve and love you until time itself died of exhaustion, spent, maintaining my search for You only

i remember ur parting words.
'find me that we may both live and continue in this eternal Love' and so without direction i searched through lives and experiences, all of which brought me closer to You tho i had no idea where u were but somehow always knew the distance between us ur final words perplex me to this day 'find me that we may both live ...' implying that if i fail we would both perish in the void overwhelmed by the urgency i fought all manner of obstructions to reach a nearer proximity, i feel You now more than ever before spurred on by this quickening and much wiser from the lessons of experience, i now sail home to You carried magnetically like a Phoenix riding cosmic currents while always deftly manoeuvering around threats and obstacles i care little for myself, however, under no circumstance would i allow u to be absorbed by the void, a space reserved for meaningless and lost lives i must find you, to save you perhaps i was given a great gift to know what i must do in existence, return to You and become again with You together as One some say i was cursed, referring to the many tortures i have suffered in my search, perhaps, but the pains and tribulations only brought me closer so i would invite the increase in power of this curse, as i know it ends in Union

never fear my Love, emancipation is nearer than we both may think i am so near i understand only now that my love is your Love, the Love that set all existence in motion https://inversetimes.hopto.org/news/story-215.html