Grev

by jill via lex - Inverse Times Wednesday, Jul 17 2019, 12:06am international / poetry / post the sky hangs low it's dreams abandoned in its youth drawing its bleeding sunset/rise colours into grey yet the sun shines always above the opaque grey only those under it are deprived of light, warmth and hope to compensate for the loss people have become addicted to electronic representations of warm sun-drenched days presented on small and large screens that increase in size as the tolerance for artificial stimuli increases the sky is falling so low today tall trees are burdened with holding it above the ground where all the desperate live their vacuous lives fixed on smaller pocket-sized screens to evade momentarily the enveloping greyness as they move around like soul-less ghosts, though the sun continues to shine above the greyness

few if any put down their desperate screens and attempt to climb mountains which summits are bathed in golden light and cleaned with pure air https://inversetimes.hopto.org/news/story-731.html